...The National Bank of Georgia boasts a history spanning over a century. The establishment of Georgia's first central bank was proposed on May 28, 1918—just two days after the country declared its independence. The State Bank of Georgia officially commenced operations on July 24, 1920, with Iason Lortkipanidze serving as its first governor. Notably, this year saw a significant tribute to Lortkipanidze's legacy. Initiated by the National Bank of Georgia and supported by the Tbilisi City Council, the street and square adjacent to the NBG's cash center were named in his honor. Additionally, a memorial plaque dedicated to Lortkipanidze was unveiled at 12 Anton Purtseladze Street in Tbilisi.
