1 INTRODUCTION

1.1 Management Statement

Senior management of the bank ensures fair presentation and accuracy of the information provided within Pillar 3 disclosure report. The report is prepared in accordance with internal review and control processes coordinated with the board. The report meets the requirements of the decree, signed in April 2017, N92/04 of the Governor of the National Bank of Georgia on “Disclosure requirements for commercial banks within Pillar 3” and other relevant decrees and regulations of NBG.

1.2 Disclosures according to Pillar 3 of the Basel 3 Capital Framework

The purpose of this Report is to provide Pillar 3 disclosures of JSC Credo Bank as required by the global regulatory framework for capital and liquidity, established by the Basel Committee on Banking Supervision, also known as Basel 3 and as required by the Regulation (EU) N575/2013 of the European Parliament and of the Council on prudential requirements for credit institutions and investment firms. Based on the requirements of the stated Regulations, National Bank of Georgia has implemented the decree N92/04 on “Disclosure requirements for commercial banks within Pillar 3”.

1.3 Main Indicators

Credo Bank is the fifth largest bank in Georgia. It is represented by 97 branches in all regions of Georgia and serves more than 500 000 customers. Bank’s mission is to provide financial services for entrepreneurs, their employees and family members to create better future.

JSC Credo Bank credit rating

Fitch Ratings	Rate	Outlook
Long Term Rate	B+	Stable

International rating agency Fitch Ratings has upgraded JSC Credo Bank's (Credo) Long-Term Issuer Default Rating (IDR) to 'B+' from 'B' with stable outlook

The upgrade reflects the continued strengthening of the bank's business profile, highlighted by franchise growth and moderate improvements in financial metrics, particularly profitability and capitalisation, over the past four years. These positive trends have been supported by strong economic growth in Georgia and stable customer and investor confidence.

Table 1 Regulatory Capital (GEL)

1	Regulatory Capital (GEL)	31.12.2025	31.12.2024
1.1	COMMON EQUITY TIER 1 (CET 1)	432,033,813	347,648,418
1.2	TIER 1	458,984,813	347,648,418

1.4	TOTAL REGULATORY CAPITAL	594,757,254	448,625,693

COMMON EQUITY TIER 1 (CET 1) increased by GEL 84.4 million in 2025 compared to 2024, the main reasons being:

1. Increase in retained earnings by GEL 92.4 million
2. Issuance of shares and increasing of share premium by the amount of GEL 2.65 million

At the same time, compared to the same period of the previous year, the regulatory adjustments of TIER 1 increased by 10.7 million GEL (intangible assets and goodwill) - which ultimately gave to bank an increase of 84.4 million.

Additional TIER 1 Capital – (AT 1) – During 2025 Credo Bank successfully issued and allocated with private investor subordinated perpetual bonds on amount of 10 million USD -as an instrument of additional TIER 1 capital.

The increase in the TOTAL REGULATORY CAPITAL is even more impressive in the amount of GEL 146.1 million, which was conditioned not only by the increase of the above-mentioned TIER 1, but also by the increase of Tier 2 component, namely:

- The amount of subordinated loans to be included in the Regulatory capital increased by 34.8 million GEL, from 100.9 million GEL up to 135.7 million GEL

The table below reflects all above mentioned changes in the regulatory capital structure

Capital Adequacy

Capital Adequacy Ratios, both in 2025 and 2024, significantly exceeded the minimum requirements set by the NBG. Abovementioned is especially fair for Tier 1 and Total Regulatory capital ratios.

On December 18, 2017, the NBG published and approved amendments on capital adequacy regulation, (Decree N100/04) according to which minimum capital requirement ratios have been revised and set new Pillar I buffers – Capital Conservation, Systemic Risk and Countercyclical buffers, namely:

Common Equity Tier I Capital (CET I), Tier I Capital (Tier I) and Total Regulatory Capital ratios were revised and set at 4.5%, 6% and 8% respectively.

Capital conservation and countercyclical buffers are set at 2.5% and 0.5%. The system risk buffer for Credo Bank was also set at 0.0%.

On December 18, 2017, the NBG also published and approved Pillar II requirements in addition to Pillar I buffers. The requirements include the following capital buffers: Currency Induced Credit Risk (CICR), NET GRAPE, credit Portfolio Concentration Risk, Net-Stress Test and CRA buffers.

Despite the increased requirements, Credo Bank's supervisory and initial capital ratios are still significantly higher than required (see Table 3). CET I ratio is 13.25%, Tier I ratio is 14.08% and total Regulatory Capital ratio is 18.25% versus required 11.57%, 13.66% and 16.44% respectively.

The total volume of risk-weighted assets increased by 24.6 % compared to 2024, while the absolute volume increased by GEL 642.6 million. This increase was mainly due to the increase in operational and credit risk weighted assets. The latest increased by 543.2 million GEL compared to the previous year, which was due to Increasing of credit portfolio.

2. Concerning the increase in operational risk weighted assets on 97 M GEL-was caused by increasing in interest and non-interest incomes.

Credo Bank uses long-term credit ratings of the following credit agencies: S&P, MOODYs and FITCH. The above mentioned ECAs are nominated by the National Bank of Georgia. Mainly these ratings are used for domestic commercial bank assessment, because currently CREDO has small amount of credit exposures to foreign banks, except of current account balance with “Societe Generale” which is weighted at 20%

6.2	LLR/TOTAL LOANS	2.11 %	2.07 %	2.15 %

4 RISK MANAGEMENT

4.1 Bank Strategy

Credo's mission has always been rooted in delivering innovative financial products and exceptionally high-quality services across Georgia. True to this vision, Credo remains largely focused on serving rural micro and small entrepreneurs, their families, and family members.

Just as in previous years, Credo remains firmly committed to enhancing access to banking for Georgia's low- and middle-income population. The strategy going forward is clear: to expand and diversify service offerings while embracing digital innovation to better meet the evolving needs of clients.

The bank's risk management approach is closely aligned with its overall business strategy. It reflects the unique aspects of Credo's business model, ensuring that the risk profile is well understood and managed accordingly.

As Credo looks toward continued expansion, this will be seen through dynamic growth in both its credit and non-credit portfolios. At the same time, the bank fully recognizes the risks tied to its ambitious development path. To manage these effectively, Credo has built robust platforms for risk mitigation, including the maintenance of sufficient regulatory and economic capital, and the implementation of sound structures, clear policies, defined procedures, and strong internal reporting mechanisms.

4.2 Risk Owners

Risk management in Credo Bank is performed at three different levels, and each risk category has a responsible structural unit. For each level there are specific functional units for defined risks and responsibilities are distributed between the first, second and third lines of defense adequately.

4.3 Functions / Responsibilities of Owners

The first defense level in risk management exists at the following structural levels:

Risk Owners' roles/responsibilities

Credit Operations is managed by the Credit Operations Manager. The credit operation function is regulated by the Operations Policy.

Credit Committees may be comprised of both members from business operations as well as from non-business lines (Credit Risk Unit, Management Board, and Supervisory Board). Credit Committees take decisions on loan applications, on the restructuring and refinancing of existing loans, and on actions related to problem loans. Limits to the decision-making authority of Credit Committees are regulated by the Operations Policy.

4.4 Main Risks

This section will provide information on the material risks embedded in the operations of the Bank.

Credit risk

The Bank's credit strategy is to create a diversified and profitable loan portfolio in rural as well as urban areas while maintaining a high portfolio quality. To build and maintain a healthy portfolio, lending processes and rules were developed prudently.

Credit risk is obviously the most material type of risk for Credo. Credo uses the following steps to measure and manage credit risk:

- Establishment of an appropriate credit risk management environment – This is achieved through written Operations Policy with annexes covering target markets, portfolio mix, price and non-price terms, the structure of limits, approval authorities and exceptions, processing, and reporting. Bank emphasis on regular staff training in own training academy, on regular workshops and operations meetings to improve controls and quality. Career and promotion paths are linked to portfolio quality. All incentive schemes, including management have quality targets components.

All credit decisions are taken by a credit committee comprising of at least two members, no individual can enforce a loan decision.

Credit risk is monitored by the credit department. There are several levels of approval based on loan amount.

The institution seeks to create behavior of prompt loan repayments by rewarding those clients that adhere to loan conditions with the opportunity for further loans. A loan officer's assessment of the client's ability to repay a loan always involves not only calculating the enterprise's cash flows and analyzing its liquidity planning, but also evaluating the figures presented in its official books and/or records (if available).

A dedicated recovery department staffed with legal advisors supports the recovery activities of problem loans. Credo uses standardized scorecards which are regularly updated and reduce the risk of fraud.

- Operating under a sound credit-granting process - Credit granting involves consideration of different elements, that is described in the Operations Policy. It also takes into consideration cooperation with insurance companies to reduce default risk (e.g. crop insurance, life insurance etc.). These insurance products serve to mitigate the possible default risk of a loan portfolio. Loan analysis focuses strongly on the prospective client's ability and willingness to pay, primarily through a thorough computation of the cash flows of the businesses. While there is a professional evaluation of the assets pledged as loan security, this aspect of the analysis is awarded only a secondary rank in the decision-making hierarchy.
- Maintenance of appropriate credit administration, measurement, and monitoring processes - This involves regular monitoring of several key items related to the condition of individuals and groups of borrowers. It includes the current financial condition of the borrower or counterparty, compliance with existing covenants and collateral coverage, monitoring of loans in the credit portfolio, and monitoring of specific types of borrowers as well as connected borrowers to avoid concentrations of risk. Specific attention is addressed to the risk of refinanced/restructured borrowers, where the Bank applies adequate covenants by setting limits, eligibility criteria, intensified credit control, and careful monitoring of refinancing/restructuring behavior to maintain the high quality of loan portfolio.
- Maintenance of appropriate portfolio quality reporting - Portfolio quality and lending limits determined are regularly reported to the management of the Bank via portfolio reporting. The Bank classifies its credit facilities into performing and non-performing loans and builds adequate provisions for expected loan losses following local regulations. The portfolio report contains information about the distribution of the portfolio by amounts and types of arrears, by exposures to sectors and regions, by currencies, by-products etc.
- Registered Collateral – one type of means for mitigation of the credit risk is collateral. The types of collateral used for loans might be precious metals, movable property, immovable property, and third-person guarantees. Before using any of the listed types of collateral, it should be properly evaluated by the expert. The Operations Policy covers detailed rules, on how each of the collateral should be appraised. The expert is rotated one in a quarter. The immovable property should be owned by the borrower, if it is owned by the third person, he/she should become the guarantor of a client. By the end of 2025 Registered Collateral summed as 4.5 bln GEL. The structure of collateral types is given below in Table 7.

Table 7 Structure of Collateral (as of the end of 2024)

Type of Collateral	Collateral in GEL	Share %
Third Person Guarantees	1,780,836,214.40	37.60%

Immovable Property (Mortgage)	2,604,467,875.81	54.98%
Movable Property	335,650,977.90	7.09%
Deposit	15,882,249.25	0.34%
Precious Metals	2,027.79	0.00%

Foreign Exchange Induced Credit Risk (CICR)

Currency-induced credit risk is relevant for the whole portfolio of the Bank denominated in foreign currencies except for cases when the Bank has evidence that the client has an income source in the same currency as the loan. The following rules are implemented into the credit processes in order to reduce the foreign exchange risk of the credit portfolio:

- Credo has a conservative approach to the CICR risk - keeping buffers on loans disbursed in foreign currency by dividing the client's income by a more conservative foreign exchange rate compared to the actual foreign exchange rate (more conservative debt service ratio compared to loans denominated in local currency).

Counterparty Credit Risk

This risk is related to the risk of default by the counterparty before the final settlement of the transaction's cash flows. The credit risk of the counterparty shall be considered in relation to the operations related to the interest rate and foreign currency exchange, which are planned to be carried out in the future - within the terms established by the relevant agreement. These types of operations include futures, swaps, options, and other derivatives.

- The Bank operates a counterparty limit system for treasury deals with Bank partners, which is defined by the Financial Risk Management Policy and approved by ALCO and the Supervisory Board. Limits are reviewed every year and in any case when relevant information about the partner is noticed by the Bank. All counterparty limits are approved and regularly reviewed by the Supervisory Board.

Operational Risk

Operational risk may derive from inadequate internal processes or systems, external events, inadequate employee performance, or from the breaching of or non-compliance with statutory provisions, contracts, and internal regulations. Operational risk includes legal risk but excludes reputational and strategic risk.

To measure and manage operational risk, Credo Bank uses the following steps:

- Risk mapping - The Bank's operational risk policy provides a comprehensive framework for operational risk identification, measurement, and management. The policy lays down the principles on how operational risk must be identified, assessed, monitored, and controlled or mitigated.
- Operational risk identification, assessment, monitoring, and mitigation - It involves a system of checks to identify strengths and weaknesses of the operational risk environment.

Operational risk activities in the Bank include:

- Loss data collection - collection of observed losses through the involvement of business units (decentralized data collection);
- Self-assessment - assessment of existing risks and the possible occurrence of losses (frequency and severity also measured) through the involvement of business units and interviews of respective business process risk owners;
- Definition and monitoring of risk mitigation actions - based on loss data collection and results of self-assessment.
- Risk indicators (KRI) - according to which the bank monthly monitors, measures and evaluates pre-identified risks, in accordance with the bank's risk appetite.
- Outsourcing risk assessment and management - Based on the criticality of the process, assessment of possible events of risk and loss (including the probability of occurrence);
- Developing a strong and effective business continuity plan - Identifying business processes and assessing criticality, as well as determining process impact. Development of stress tests and annual testing.
- Assessment of new processes and identification of risks - which implies management and evaluation of all new risks, the occurrence of which is related to new processes, systems, products, or tools, which ensures their successful implementation.

The operational risk management in the Bank takes place at three levels (business units/departments level, Operational Risk Unit level/ Risk Committee, and Audit level), which ensures regular control of operational risk.

Market risk

Two types of market risk are relevant – interest rate risk of the Banking book and foreign exchange risk. Both of them are described in detail below.

Interest rate risk of the Banking book

Interest rate risk is taken to be the current or prospective risk to both the earnings and capital of the institution arising from adverse movements in interest rates. As Credo does not have a trading book, only Banking book exposures are relevant.

Types of interest rate risks relevant for the Bank:

- revaluation risk, i.e. risk deriving from the different maturity structures of receivables and payables and from pricing that is based on different interest rates or different periods;
- yield curve risk, i.e. risk originating in changes in the shape and steepness of the yield curve.

A revaluation risk occurs when there is a mismatch between the maturity structure of assets and liabilities and if pricing takes place at different intervals or at differently based interest rates (e.g. receivables at a fixed interest rate and liabilities at a variable interest rate). Credo manages and monitors its interest rate risk through the interest rate maturity gap.

Foreign exchange risk

It rises from open or imperfectly hedged positions in a particular currency as a result of unexpected movements of foreign exchange rates (that may lead to losses in the local or reporting currency of the Bank).

Foreign exchange positions are managed according to the Financial Risk Management Policy of the Bank. Calculation of the position is executed in line with the Georgian Regulation Setting, Calculating and Maintaining the Overall Open Foreign Exchange Position Limit of Commercial Banks.

Liquidity risk

Liquidity is the ability of the Bank to fund increases in assets and meet obligations as they come due, without incurring unacceptable losses. Every financial transaction or commitment has implications for a Bank's liquidity.

Effective liquidity risk management helps to ensure a Bank's ability to meet obligations, which are uncertain as they are affected by external events and other stakeholder's behavior. Liquidity risk management is of paramount importance as a liquidity shortfall at a single institution may have system-wide repercussions.

Deposits have an important share in Credo's midterm perspectives, but the main source of liquidity risk comes from the renewal of institutional ("market") funding. The maturities of these funds are planned and managed in detail, which constitutes the main element of Credo's liquidity risk management:

- Funding decisions are made on regular ALCO meetings that are held at least monthly or more frequently if required;
- Liquidity position is assessed every month by liquidity ratios that are defined by the Financial Risk Management Policy;
- In addition, the Bank's Treasury department monitors liquidity positions daily and ensures that appropriate liquidity positions are maintained in accordance with the internal limits that are set based on ALCO's decision, and historical data and consider relevant internal and external factors, such as funding cost and disbursement seasonality.
- To avoid holding excessive liquidity, the Bank assigns liquidity exposure limits to its counterparts which are approved by the Supervisory Board and regularly reviewed and reported. The mentioned limits are updated regularly and controlled daily by the financial risk department. The bank tries as much as possible to diversify its assets according to the top-rated banks of Georgia.

Reputational risk

Reputational risk is the current or prospective indirect risk to earnings and capital arising from the adverse perception of the image of the financial institution by customers, counterparties, shareholders, investors or regulators. It is manifested in the fact that the external opinion on the institution is less favorable than desired.

The reputational risk may originate from the lack of compliance with industry standards, failure to honor commitments, lack of fair market practices, low or inferior service quality, inappropriate business conduct or unfavorable authority opinion and actions.

Several processes and organizational units of the Credo Bank manage reputational risk:

- Credo has strong and reputable shareholders and debt investors which ensure high commitment and adherence to best international standards and practices, in particular related to Customer Protection, AML, Governance, and Environmental and Social Risk Management;
- Access Credo (GmbH), the parent company of Credo, introduced a globally binding customer protection policy in all its institutions which requires regular reporting on customer protection-related matters;
- Credo has a strict Environmental and Social Performance Policy which among other topics regulates employee working conditions and the investment policy of Credo. The Bank's lending activities are limited by the Exclusion List, all potential clients and businesses are screened against the exclusion list before funding. Credo regularly reports on Environmental and Social issues to its shareholders and the majority of its funding partners. The ES policy is regularly updated and reviewed and is subject to frequent due diligence by investors;
- Credo's shareholders impose an Operating Policy that clearly defines minimum standards for the institution related to customer focus, investment policy, credit underwriting standards, the treatment of employees and other external stakeholders, and governance;
- Credo is obliged by its shareholders to select only the top audit companies for the external audit of its financial statements and to maintain insurance with reputable companies covering employee fidelity, cash, electronic fraud, fixed assets, public liability; and directors' liability;
- Credo has a call center unit, which enlarges the responsiveness of customers related to feedback and complaints;
- Credo owns a training academy, where it trains and re-trains staff during the whole year. Training areas include the mission of Credo, target groups, credit underwriting standards, code of conduct, Environmental and Social Management and AML;
- Credo has written detailed customer service standards for its staff and branches. Standards are regularly monitored and evaluated by a dedicated unit for customer service control and annually by external mystery shoppers;
- Credo conducts annual focus group research and regular research on the market, products, and existing clients. The client retention rate is monitored on monthly basis.

Reputational risk is managed by policies and processes, no capital is allocated

5 RISK APPETITE FRAMEWORK

5.1 Stakeholders

At the heart of Credo Bank's risk governance lies a clearly defined Risk Appetite, a set threshold that reflects the level of risk the bank is prepared to accept in pursuit of its strategic objectives. This threshold isn't arbitrary. It is shaped by the regulatory landscape and the bank's own business model, and serves as a compass for both daily operations and long-term decision-making.

Guided by this framework, the Board of Directors, alongside other key stakeholders, continuously monitors how closely the bank is operating within these limits. This oversight ensures that Credo remains aligned with its capacity to absorb risk, while keeping enough flexibility to pursue growth when opportunities arise.

Risk appetite, in this sense, becomes more than a boundary - it is a strategic tool. It guides all levels of management by translating strategy into actionable limits and providing a clear lens through which every major decision can be evaluated.

Moreover, it offers transparency to external stakeholders, whether they be shareholders, regulators, employees, or rating agencies by painting a clear picture of the risks the bank is currently exposed to and the direction it intends to take.

Ultimately, risk appetite enables Credo to strike a critical balance: maximizing value creation while minimizing the probability of unexpected risk events. When limits are approached or exceeded, timely interventions can be made — ensuring that risks are not only managed, but proactively anticipated.

5.2 Factors determining Risk appetite

In determining risk appetite, various external and internal factors are taken into consideration such as:

- Current capital situation of Credo;
- Current risk profile of Credo and limits set to Bank's management;
- Current economic condition, future expectations and forecasts for Georgia and region;
- Competition environment in the sector and shareholders expectations about development of the Banking sector;
- History and experience of the institution regarding performance in various economic and competitive environments;
- Requirements set by regulations of National Bank of Georgia regarding capital adequacy;
- Minimum covenants set by National Bank of Georgia;
- Internal capital adequacy assessment process (ICAAP) annually required from Banks by National Bank of Georgia.

5.3 Risk Appetite statement

Bank is reasonably confident that risk appetite is well communicated and understood by all stakeholders. It is directly linked to Bank's strategy and business model, addresses the Bank's material risks under both normal and stressed market and macroeconomic conditions and sets clear boundaries and expectations by establishing quantitative limits and qualitative statements for risks that are difficult to measure. Credo sets Bank-wide risk appetite and applies aggregate limits to set the overall tone for the Bank's approach to risk-taking. Although several sub-limits also exist in the Bank's various business lines, they are not considered as risk appetite limits, but rather they are management tools to experiment with products, segments, sub-sectors, etc. under the aggregate risk limits. Key elements of the Bank's risk appetite statement are that:

- It is linked with the Bank's short and long-term strategic, capital and financial plans, as well as compensation programs;

- Establishes the amount of risk the Bank is prepared to accept in pursuit of its strategic objectives and business plan, taking into account the interests of customers, employees, supervisors, shareholders, and business partners as well as capital and other regulatory requirements;
- Determines for major risks the maximum level of risk that the Bank is willing to operate within, based on its risk appetite, capacity and profile;
- Includes quantitative measures that can be translated into risk limits;
- It is forward-looking and subject to scenario and stress testing to ensure that the Bank understands what events might push the Bank outside its risk appetite and/or risk capacity;
- Ensures that the strategy and sub-limits of each business line align with the Bank-wide risk appetite statement as appropriate.

For risk appetite, risk limits are the allocation of the Bank's aggregate risk appetite statement to specific risk categories, concentrations, and as appropriate, other levels. To facilitate effective monitoring and reporting of the risk limits, Credo uses specific, measurable, frequency-based, reportable assumptions. Having measurable risk limits, it assists Credo in preventing unknowingly breaching risk limits as market conditions change and be an effective brake against excessive risk-taking.

Risk limits are:

- Set a level to constrain risk-taking within risk appetite based on an estimate of the impact on the interest of customers and shareholders, as well as capital regulatory requirements, if a risk limit is breached and the likelihood that each material risk is realized;
- Expressed relative to capital, liquidity, credit risk, and other relevant measures;
- Used to measure material risk concentrations at the Bank-wide level;
- Not strictly based on comparison to peers, default to regulatory limits, be overly complicated, ambiguous, or subjective and be monitored regularly.

The major risk for Credo is credit risk, its appetite is largely expressed in risk limits related to credit operations of the institution defined in this risk appetite statement and aligned with Credit Policy:

- Profitability is a key objective but credit standards must not be compromised in the pursuit of operating income. A well-balanced and high-quality credit portfolio is of the highest priority;
- Where borrowing is classed as prohibited, there is no appetite to pursue this type of business, and any exceptions must be referred to the Supervisory Board;
- Unsecured lending will continue in various segments as a result of the specific customer base, but the Bank will carefully monitor its share in the total credit portfolio;
- Sectorial concentrations in loan portfolio will be an increasingly important area and management will use specific risk limit levels for managing these risks;
- Currency concentrations will be an important focus area and management will use specific risk limit levels for managing these risks.

The Bank also puts aggregate limits on other risks such as market (particularly FX risk) and Liquidity risk.

6 REMUNERATION

Remuneration is one of the most sensitive issues in the human resource policy of an organization. The determination of staff salaries and benefits not only affects the operating expenses of the bank, but also has implications on staff motivation, internal working relationships, and employee propensity to perpetrate fraud.

The remuneration policy of Credo Bank is based on the following principles:

- Job evaluation is based on the HAY guideline profile methodology. Each job has a defined grade and salary scale with minimum and maximum remuneration levels.
- The salary matrix is composed in local currency based on Georgian financial market compensation data to ensure competitive salary levels in every city and region, according to the consumer basket, while also maintaining the principle of internal equity.
- Salary increases are predefined in a salary matrix for each job and is performance-based, ensuring internal equity in compensation.
- Job grading system is basis for employee benefit programs: each employee benefit is linked to job grade and not individual employee ensuring transparency and fairness of remuneration system.
- Staff is informed about salary ranges, defined for its position, including min and max amounts of compensation.
